His vision was not limited to this great civilizing factor, but he dreamed beyond the confines of the strip of land which would be benefited by such a line and saw the possibilities of constructing a veritable network of lines to cover the whole of the continent, for he knew better than any living man that Africa abounds in undeveloped and, in too many cases, undiscovered resources. He saw visions of great industries, even to the heart of the continent, and often spoke of a day when smoke stacks would displace the tall timbers. There were great tracts of land suitable for cotton, others equally well suited for the production of the choicest teas, coffees, sugars, spices and fruits of every kind, tropical and sub-tropical. Before him always was the picture of great packing plants to utilize the stock from the open plains and bring an end to the importation of meats from other markets, as well as to open yet another source of income for the farmer. The possibilities of great canning industries to care for the fruit and vegetable crops were all as real to him as the home in which he lived, and to effect the fullest materialization of these visions he gave every ounce of his strength and in the end his life. I worked for Mr. Rhodes, on that fence, until the commencement of the next school year and...
