This portrait, which is an original made from personal sittings, was recently discovered in Richmond by Mr. John L. Williams, and promptly purchased by him for the University of Virginia library. At his request, Judge L. L. Lewis, late of the Court of Appeals of Virginia, delivered an admirable address in presenting this picture to the University. Prof. W. M. Lile, of the law department, had been commissioned by the university to receive the picture, and he did so in an exceedingly adroit and skillful speech, in which he attempted a reconciliation of the views of Marshall and Jefferson. These speeches will be published in a pamphlet, which will also contain some account of the portrait itself. The portrait now hangs in the University of Virginia library, and has attracted much attention during the summer. It is exceedingly handsome, and in every way a very desirable addition-to our growing number of portraits. Immediately after the presentation of the Marshall portrait, the chairman announced that a committee of the graduates of Col. Peters school of Latin wished to present to him some tribute of their esteem on the occasion of his retirement from the University Faculty. Mr. George W. Miles, of the Board of Visitors, was first introduced, and delighted the audience by his most graceful and attractive speech, which gained in charm by its excellent delivery. Following this, Mr. W. M. Thornton, on behalf of the Faculty, spoke with his...
