Appendix I: Updated Slides from the July 28, 2010 Congressional Briefing Scope and Methodology To accomplish our objectives, we worked with IRS officials to determine the availability of information related to the tax treatment of forgiven mortgage debt; analyzed IRS data concerning the number and dollar amount of cancelled debts from 2007 through June 2010; analyzed related forms and publications, education and outreach materials, and actions taken by IRS to inform taxpayers, tax software companies, and paid preparers about the tax treatment of cancelled mortgage debt; reviewed how tax software packages from companies that cover 90 percent of the market treat forgiven mortgage debt; and interviewed IRS officials about a variety of issues, and housing market experts from an industry association and a private research company familiar with the current condition of the housing market, including trends in foreclosure and debt cancellation. We conducted this performance audit from July 2010 through August 2010 in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards. We interviewed IRS officials and housing market experts about available data and determined that the data included in this briefing were sufficiently reliable for our purposes. 4 Page 13 GAO-10-997 Tax Administration This item ships from La Vergne, TN.
